SIRCOMM donates equipment

August 31, 2009

At an August 11 meeting of SIRCOMM's Joint Powers Board several items were declared to be surplus equipment. As a result of this decision SIRCOMM was able to donate this equipment to several area school districts.

The Castleford School District received a welding bench, Hansen School District received welding screens and two welding helmets, Dietrich School District received a welder and accessories, and a metal band saw went to the Shoshone School district.

"The band saw was greatly appreciated and needed," reads a thank you note from the Shoshone School District FAA Chapter, "it will be used for many FAA activities, projects and competitions."

"I'm excited we were able to find a use for this equipment with our local students", states Director of SIRCOMM, John Moore, "it's gratifying, when possible, to meet the needs in our community schools and other agencies with items we can no longer utilize."

All recipients were determined to have current vocational agriculture classes and a need for the equipment. The four schools that met the criteria were then entered into a random drawing to determine which items they would receive.
